CHEETAH PLAINS

Nestled between Kruger National Park and Sabi Sand Game Reserve lies Cheetah Plains - a lodge at the cutting edge of service, luxury, and design. Blending natural materials and chic minimalism, Cheetah Plains is an instantly relaxing place to stay, perfectly in sync with its natural surroundings.

There are no fences between Kruger and Sabi Sands, allowing game to move freely - and Cheetah Plains also shares a boundary with Mala Mala Park - this really is the perfect neighbourhood!

Exclusivity here, though, is guaranteed - with private concession rights dictating that only two game vehicles at a time can explore the individual areas.

Privacy at game sightings is the norm here, but so too are the breathtaking panoramas, the plentiful smaller wildlife, effortlessly warm service, and delicious South African home-style dining.

The exclusive-use lodges are equipped with two lounges (a formal lounge and an entertainment lounge), a dining area, an outdoor boma for fire-side dining, a temperature controlled wine cellar, heated swimming pool, day-bed, private deck area, and indigenous gardens with spectacular views into the surrounding natural bushveld.

All meals here are prepared by a private chef, and guests may select from the expansive list of carefully-chosen wines.

Use of a private game viewing vehicle with a designated professional field guide & tracker are included for use throughout. You will find a bush house equipped with king beds, a private mini bar and coffee station, personal deck with a day-bed, dressing room, and a double rain shower and bath overlooking the bush.

Inclusions: Accommodation, all meals prepared by private chef, teas and coffee, twice-daily private game drives with guide (including sunrise/sunset stops and star-gazing), all house drinks including local alcohol, and outdoor fireside dining.
